eNCPT Translations

The electronic Nutrition Care Process Terminology (eNCPT) is on a new web platform and now available to translate in any language for all subscribers to access, particularly dietitians within your country! The eNCPT is updated around September of every year. New translators always translate the most recent edition while current translators have the option to update translations or maintain access to older eNCPT Edition translations.

Translations are currently available in Swedish (Sweden), German (Switzerland), French (Canada), Norwegian (Norway), Danish (Denmark), Simplified Chinese (China), and Traditional Chinese (Taiwan).

Coming soon: Portuguese (Brazil) and Spanish (Mexico).

Translator Resources

Portal: Translators have access to a translator Portal where all communication related to the translation process occurs. The portal is where translators access:

Templates: Translators can easily download all translation template documents and can then choose which parts (or all) of the eNCPT they wish to translate.

Discussion String(s): A discussion string is created within the portal unique to your translation of the eNCPT. The discussion string is where translators can ask questions and receive answers from Academy staff. All communication related to the translation is held within the discussion string.

Multi-User Access to the eNCPT: The entity translating purchases a multi-user subscription, providing access to the eNCPT for up to 1000 concurrent users.
